BIBLIOGRAPHY OF BRITISH AND IRISH HISTORY (BBIH)

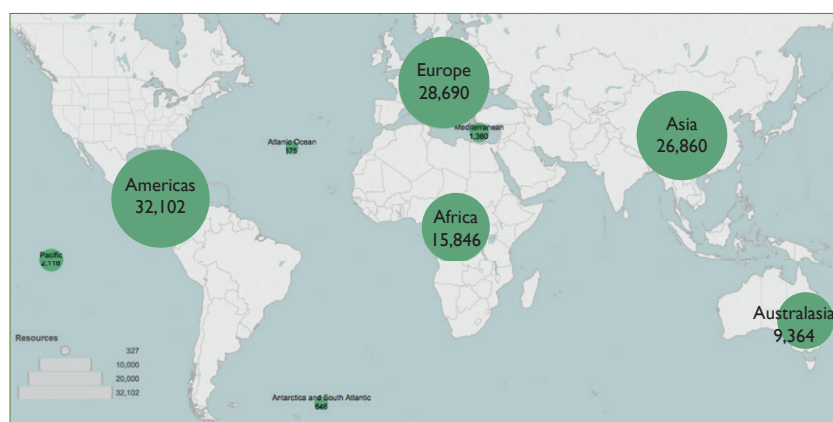

The largest and most authoritative index of British and Irish history, covering the Roman period to the present day.

- Over 600,000 records of books, chapters and articles
- 12,000 records added annually
- Over 750 journals and series regularly checked for new content

“The Bibliography of British and Irish History is an essential resource for anyone interested in the history of Britain and Ireland, or the British World. (...) No student, lecturer or researcher should be without the wonderful BBIH.

Professor Sir David Cannadine, Dodge Professor of History, Princeton University, and President of the British Academy.

Global reach

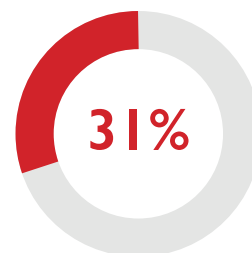

Given the global reach of British and Irish history, the Bibliography provides extensive coverage of scholarly content relating to Britain, Ireland, the British empire and Commonwealth and the British world.

An invaluable research tool for Eighteenth-Century Studies

A large number (188,895, or nearly a third) of bibliographic records in the BBIH cover publications relating to the long eighteenth century (1688-1815) in all its aspects.

The multidisciplinary database encompasses a broad spectrum of subjects, ranging from religious history through to philosophy, science and the arts; and from military and political history to social and gender studies.

1. The BBIH has numerous search fields. The database automatically counts the number of hits for each individual search term and the total number of hits.

The screenshot shows the BBIH search interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'Introduction', 'Search', 'Coverage', 'Search History', 'My Email Alerts', 'Metrics', and 'Provide feedback'. Below this, there's a search bar with 'Enlightenment' entered and a search button. To the right of the search bar, it says '2599'. Below the search bar, there's a 'Bibliographical search' section with fields for 'Author', 'Title contains', 'Journal or Series', and 'Year of publication'. To the right of these fields are 'Browse' buttons. Below this is a 'Subject search' section with fields for 'All index terms', 'Subject tree', 'Place name tree', and 'Person as subject'. To the right of these fields are 'Browse' buttons. The 'Subject tree' is highlighted with a red box, showing a hierarchical list of subjects. At the bottom right, there's a 'Total number of hits: 2599' and a 'Search' button.

The screenshot shows the 'Subject tree' interface. It has a 'Relation' section with 'OR' and 'AND' options. Below this is a 'Search in tree' button. A note says: 'Tick a checkbox to select a term, or click on the term to expand the tree. Click Insert/Close to add your selection to the search form. You can also search the tree for a subject by entering it in the search box and clicking Search in tree'. The main area is a tree structure with various subjects listed, including 'General', 'Historical and methodological', 'Demographic and environmental history', 'Social history', 'Medical history and health', 'Economic history', 'Technology', 'Media and communication', 'Intellectual, cultural and artistic history', 'Social and cultural identity', 'Religious history', 'Political, administrative and legal history', 'Military history', 'Foreign affairs', 'Imperial and Commonwealth', 'Other major themes', 'Materials', 'Events and periods', and 'Sources'. The 'Subject tree' is highlighted with a red box.

The database has been indexed using a specially designed classification hierarchy for subjects and place names. The subject tree enables users to select subject indexing terms by browsing a hierarchically organized tree.
